

Employer's car

Fringe benefit arises when the employer's car is allowed to be used for private rides. This means that it is not important to use the employer's car for private rides, but to enable the use of the car. Reimbursement of private rides when using the employer's car is also not important, because it does not change the taxation of the fringe benefit.

Last updated on 08.01.2025